2020 CEO'S REPORT

Ryan Webb

To say this was a unique year would be an understatement as COVID-19 heavily impacted everything we did at the club, both on and off the field. The pandemic made us reassess how we did things and forced us to be agile in the execution of our activities as our operating environment constantly changed.

The NRL season started then stopped, fans were able to attend matches and then not, our football department was placed under the NRL's strict Apollo protocols which limited their contact with many others at the club, all in order for us to get through a full season of rugby league.

It was not just our football department that had to adjust. All our staff were exceptional in working through the vast array of challenges that were placed in front of them. All departments, including finance, corporate partnerships, football, consumer business, community, marketing, game day and communications did an exceptional job keeping the club not only alive, but by implementing many new systems and processes that will ensure we come out of this period stronger than ever before.

I would like to thank all our great corporate partners that supported us this year along with the more than 16,000 members whose support was unwavering. I believe the club has reciprocated that support through the supply of creative benefits this year along with the application of credits and discounts for many in 2021.

Despite all the challenges and potential excuses that have arisen, ultimately the club is judged on our performance and we did not meet expectations this year in the NRL nor the NRLW.

Football

Team performance was up and down. Sometimes this was evident from week-to-week, while at other times we seemed to change considerably from one half of football to the next. Consistency in results, but even more so consistency in effort is going to be vital for ongoing future success.

We saw the departure of a highly respected member of the club in head coach Paul McGregor. Paul was an outstanding servant to the club over many years and he will continue to be part of the Dragons' family for years to come.

It was great to see Dean Young step into the interim head coaching role for the final six matches of the season. I am sure he is better for the experience and we wish him all the best with his move to the Cowboys, where he will continue to grow as a coach and person.

The appointment of Anthony Griffin as our new head coach is a big change for the club and opportunity to create something new and exciting in a football sense. We believe Anthony's past achievements in the NRL give a good indication of what we can expect from him and the players under his instruction.

Along with Anthony's appointment, there have been several changes in personnel and structure throughout the football department. These changes should excite all the club's stakeholders, including our partners, members and supporters.

Although our NRLW team started off the year with an outstanding result in Perth at the NRL Nines, they were unable to return to those lofty heights come October's NRLW season.

The players and staff had to make some great personal sacrifices just to get onto the field and we have no doubt this affected the ability to perform at their best. As a club it is now our job to review the program and look at how we can do things better in 2021.

Consumer business

Our Red V members were also greatly affected by COVID-19 as the government restrictions stopped attending games early on and then later severely restricted their access through the latter part of the season.

We were humbled by the number of members that stuck by the club through these tough times and we look forward to welcoming back thousands of members to our home games next season.

From a merchandise perspective, our online sales were a highlight which can be attributed to our revamped online team store, a stronger focus on our digital marketing and the general shift towards online shopping by consumers. The indigenous jersey was a tremendous piece of apparel that was a highlight of our range in 2020. The response from players and the public was overwhelming as it is great to have something carry such meaning and resonate with so many people.

THE NRLW NINES WIN PROVED A 2020 HIGHLIGHT

Commercial

We are fortunate to have a great stable of corporate partners who were incredibly patient and understanding throughout this year. There were long periods where answers were not easy to find as the status of the game and game day activities fluctuated so rapidly. Our corporate partnerships team focused on strong communication and transparency which ensured our partners were always kept informed.

The restrictions around our events and hospitality were the toughest to work through as number and spacing requirements meant that we could only entertain a small amount of guests on game day and our non-game day events were put on hold. A big thank you is needed for all our corporate partners who continued to support us through this year and we look forward to welcoming you back to our full game day and event experiences in the near future.

Community

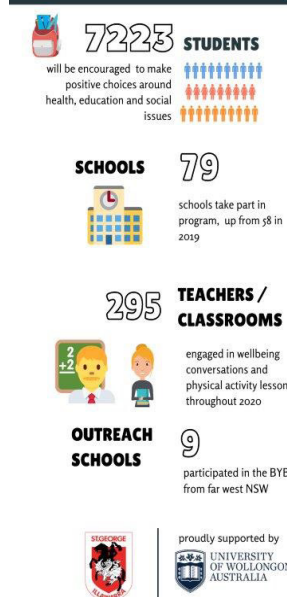

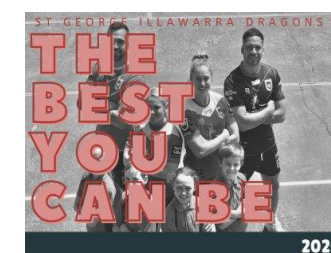

Dragons Community continued to present programs based on three community pillars that reflect the needs within the local community. They are:

1. Health and wellbeing;
2. Grassroots; and,
3. Social inclusion

There were a number of highlights, not the least of which was the entire NRL squad, staff, ambassadors, community team and NRL development staff visiting the fire ravaged South Coast to support of those affected by the 2020 New Year's Eve bushfires. It was a tremendous activity where the positive benefits were felt not just by the community, but also by our staff and players. Dragons players understand that they are in a unique position whereby they can promote and encourage, either directly or indirectly, the physical, cultural and intellectual welfare of young people in our community.

Although for much of the year the NRL squad were unable to engage in regular appearances due to COVID-19 restrictions, they still managed over 524 hours of engagements across our regions.

The Dragons 'Best You Can Be' resource expanded to 79 schools (7,223 students) participating in the program, including nine outreach schools. COVID-19 restricted our face to face school visits, but we were able to implement and send each school several 'info bites' and online lessons to keep our schools involved.

Thank you to the St George District Rugby League Football Club representatives on the Dragons board Craig Young (St George District Rugby League Football Club Chairman), Ralph Piggott (St George Leagues Club Chairman), Peter Doust and Peter Black as well as WIN Corporation's board representatives Andrew

Gordon (WIN Corporation Executive Chairman), Andrew Lancaster (WIN Corporation CEO), Craig Osborne and Graeme Gulloch (Illawarra Steelers Chairman) for their faith in appointing me earlier in the year and their continued support throughout the season.

I would also like to thank the incredible staff of the Dragons who have been so open and helpful as I have settled into this role. I am looking forward to great things in the future for our Dragons.

2020 NRL SEASON REVIEW REPORT

Ben Haran

St George Illawarra’s hopes for an improved 2020 season following our incredibly disappointing and unacceptable campaign the year prior was the club’s driving force upon pre-season commencing in November of last year.

Our 15th place finish in 2019 was the worst in the joint venture’s history and was cause for plenty of hard work over the summer months leading into the 2020 competition proper.

The signs were positive early – making it all the way to the final of the Perth Nines was a testament to this although injuries to Cameron McInnes, Korbin Sims, Matt Dufty and tournament breakout star Cody Ramsey hurt.

Sadly our Nines success didn’t translate into success in the opening rounds of the NRL season just a few weeks. Our first two rounds against the Wests Tigers and Penrith Panthers were there for the taking but like many games the year prior we failed to play out the entire 80.

The Covid-19 pandemic caused the competition to be postponed in late March, mere days after our loss to the Panthers.

While this worldwide issue provided so much uncertainty around not only rugby league but life in general, we tried to make it as positive a period as humanly possible for the players. We stayed connected daily as a squad and club and put ourselves in a good position to make amends for our slow start.

With the competition restart came on May 28 after a few short weeks of training, so too did our losing streak following defeats to the Warriors and Bulldogs in Rounds 3 and 4. Our breakthrough win came in Round 5 against the Sharks and was promptly backed up the week following against the Titans.

Inconsistency was unfortunately the key ingredient for the Dragons again in 2020, both on and off the field. The club released Issac Luke, James Graham and Tim Lafai from their Dragons playing contracts while Jack de Belin’s ongoing court matter ruled him out for another season. Ongoing injury concerns for Tariq Sims, Korbin Sims, Jacob Host and Trent Merrin, on top of numerous suspensions handed down on Paul Vaughan and Jordan Pereira didn’t help.

A 4-9 record over the first 13 rounds saw the club and head coach

Paul McGregor cut ties. Paul’s 25-year association our club and the joint venture’s founding club in the Illawarra Steelers could never be questioned, nor his passion and strong work ethic over his seven years as head coach of the Dragons.

‘Mary’s’ tenure as coach would finish in a fashion fitting for a club legend though, with the team pulling together a toughly-fought 14-12 win over competition heavyweights, Parramatta Eels.

Assistant coach Dean Young took the reins for the final six games of the year, winning twice, to finish the year at 12th. While 2020 saw a better final standing, it was marginal at best and still very much unacceptable for a proud club such as the Dragons.

We were forced to use 31 players throughout our entire campaign, but even then our entire squad should be congratulated for their commitment throughout 2020.

The Jersey Flegg and Canterbury Cup NSW competitions were key exclusions from the rugby league calendar this year, meaning those not picked for first grade went an entire season without playing a game. Despite this, our wider squad members turned up to training each and every session and went about their business in a professional and diligent matter.

Among the 31 players who featured at NRL level were first grade debutants Adam Clune (Round 4), Cody Ramsey (Round 18), Max Feagai (Round 19), Eddie Blacker and Jayden Sullivan (both Round 20). They must all be congratulated for living out their dreams as they continue their development and evolution as first grade players.

Congratulations to those who achieved milestones throughout the season: Ben Hunt (250 NRL games, 50 Dragons games), Corey Norman (200 NRL games), Tyson Frizell (150 Dragons games), James Graham (50 Dragons games), Matt Dufty, Jacob Host and Blake Lawrie (all 50 Dragons/NRL games).

Cameron McInnes was yet again a worthy Dragons Medallist and Red V Members Player of the Year recipient for a second-straight season. In his first full year as captain of the Dragons, Cam was for the most part forced to play out of position at lock but took his team-first, never-say-die attitude to new levels in 2020. Congratulations also to Tyson Frizell and Adam Clune who won the Immortals Trophy and Geoff Selby Memorial NRL Coach’s Award respectively.

Congratulations to Tyson Frizell and Ben Hunt for once again playing State of Origin for their respective states as well as Zac Lomax, Cameron McInnes and Josh Kerr for their selection in the wider Origin squads. Kerr and Tyrell Fuimaono were also proud representatives of the Indigenous All Stars earlier in 2020.

The end of our 2020 campaign signalled a lot of change for the club. From a player perspective we bid farewell to Tyson Frizell, Euan Aitken, Jacob Host, Tristan Sailor, Joe Lovodua, Korbin Sims and Jason Saab while plenty of staff from a football perspective also departed. We thank them all for the commitment to the Dragons and wish them well in their future endeavours.

I was formally named general manager of football in November after 11 years at the club. It is a huge honour to be named in this role and one I don’t take lightly. I look forward to overseeing new coach Anthony Griffin and the wider football department into 2021 and onwards.

2021 is going to be a big year at the Dragons due to the host changes we have undertaken. There’s a lot of things to be excited about as a club as a whole.

Anthony is a great appointment for us as a club; his experience and understanding of what it takes to bring young players through is undeniable. He, alongside assistant coaches Peter Gentle and Matt Elliott, already have a clear direction for the team and football department in place.

Mat Head and Shaun Timmins will also be responsible for the junior player recruitment. Shaun will also act in a pathways athletic development role while Mat will coach our new Dragons Academy initiative.

Both Tony Guilfoyle and Dan Lawson will assume the responsibility of the Dragons’ athletic performance program in 2021. Tony has a great history working alongside Anthony Griffin at the Panthers and Broncos and will be our physical performance manager. Alongside him will be current New South Wales Origin lead physiotherapist Dan Lawson as our medical performance manager.

Ian Millward’s focus will remain solely on NRL recruitment moving forward, while other key appointments include Elliot Jackson (strength and conditioning) and Cody Parsons (sports science). Physiotherapist Davis Theobald remains at the club. On a final note, I wish to thank CEO Ryan Webb and chairman Andrew Gordon as well as the entire board and management. Thank you for your ongoing support.

Thank you to the families and partners of the players and staff. The heavy commitment of our time, travel and engagements can take its toll. Your sacrifice never goes unnoticed and is always appreciated.

I would also like to pass on my sincere thanks to our corporate partners and 15,000-plus Red V members for their ongoing support. With there being so much uncertainty around our great game in 2020, your unwavering commitment to the Red V never went unnoticed.

We look forwarding to seeing you back at games in 2021.

NRLW SEASON REVIEW

Daniel Lacey

The 2020 season started with a bang and ended in bitter disappointment but there will be plenty of learnings to take out of the year as a whole.

Our Women’s Premiership campaign began earlier than usual in 2020 when the squad headed to Perth for the inaugural NRLW Nines. This squad included 13 girls from our 2019 Women’s Premiership grand final team.

A win against the New Zealand Warriors in the round robin period of the Nines was enough to see us through to the grand final against our arch-rivals, the Brisbane Broncos. It was an absolute pleasure to blow the Broncos off the park to the tune of an 28-4 victory.

The only negative from the amazing weekend was the season-ending anterior cruciate injury to inaugural player Holli Wheeler.

Uncertainty quickly reigned in the ensuing months as the Covid-19 pandemic hit everyone hard. The Women’s Premiership was not immune to the adverse worldwide consequences.

Yet from the get-go, the Dragons were at the forefront with their commitment to the women’s game. For that I must thank club CFO Jamie Barrington and new CEO Ryan Webb for their undying assurance that a Dragons team would enter the 2020 competition as well as the NRL for pulling the season together under difficult circumstances. While there were plenty of Covid-19-related protocol hurdles to overcome in preparation for the season, there were plenty of positives as far as our 2020 Women’s Premiership squad was concerned.

Internationals Isabelle Kelly and Steph Hancock joined the Dragons from the Sydney Roosters and Brisbane Broncos respectively while our inaugural skipper Sam Bremner returned from a maternity break following the birth of her son, Reef. Elsie Albert also became the first Papua New Guinean native to make her NRLW debut for the Dragons in 2020 while Jaime Chapman made the successful jump up from our development player squad. All up, 10 players returned from our 2019 campaign.

Sadly for our formidable NRLW squad this year, a disrupted preparation and heavy injury toll quickly became apparent. 2020 was the first season that the Dragons were forced to use all 22 squad members – to the point where we only played with 16 girls in our final game against the Warriors.

Three losses and a fourth place finish was never anticipated in 2020 but there were positives in bleeding the likes of Talei Holmes, Jaime Chapman, Teagan Berry, Christine Pauli, Georgia Page, Elsie Albert, Ellie Johnston and Jade Etherden into the NRLW arena.

Shaylee Bent was a deserving Dragons Medallist for the season 2020 – despite her final game suspension – and duly earned New South Wales State of Origin selection alongside Kezie Apps, Isabelle Kelly, Tiana Penitani and Jessica Sergis. Although Steph Hancock’s Queensland Origin side came away with the chocolates, it proved a fantastic opportunity for all of our Dragons involved.

Shout out to Keeley Davis too. Not only for winning my Coach’s Award in 2020 but for her efforts throughout the year. Only a back complaint prevented her from joining all of her Dragons teammates in the Origin arena.

I’d also like to say a big thanks to our pathways manager Steve Nielsen, who put countless hours into make everybody feel the passion he does for our club. I’m indebted to my loyal staff that put the team first and left no stone unturned. In 2020 this included assistant coaches Alicia-Kate Hawke,

CO-CAPTAIN KEZIE APPS

Mat Head and Andy Patmore. Our club is blessed to have amazing sponsors who stand beside our girls through thick and thin. Many thanks to St.George Bank, TripADeal, Modus Projects, X-Blades, Westfund and CBC.

Thank you once again to our loyal 2020 Red V members who signed up despite there being so much uncertainty around attending games and the inability to host any events.

From a personal note, I was honoured to be appointed the Dragons’ Women’s Premiership coach for a third season. With a very strong junior base, a professional environment, dedicated sponsors and fans, improvement for the upcoming seasons is inevitable.

Finally, there is plenty to look forward to in 2021 – a World Cup year for the women’s game. With the possibility of more NRLW rounds to come, the Dragons are well placed with five female teams on the books: two Under-18s Tarsha Gale teams, two Under-16s Lisa Fiaola teams and a Women’s Premiership team.

Brian’s vision of where the club wants to take the women’s game in our catchment area is second to none. With his support, the growth of the women’s game is definitely headed in the right direction.

PATHWAYS REPORT

Ian Millward and Steve Nielsen

The St George Illawarra junior representative teams in 2020 saw their competitions cut short due to Covid-19 with the two premiership teams from 2019 once again faring well prior to the shutdown.

Our SG Ball Under-18s Illawarra Steelers – once again coached by Ben Linde and Adam Blake – were on the way to securing a repeat of their 2019 success, however this was not to be. A number of players from this team have been selected to train full-time with the NRL squad in the upcoming 2021 season.

The Under-18s Tarsha Gale Cup Steelers coached by Daniel Lacey and Alicia-Kate Hawke were also on track to repeat their previous season's success with an undefeated run going into the last few weeks of the competition. Unfortunately their competition was also cancelled due to Covid-19.

Teagan Berry was rewarded for her outstanding season with selection into the Dragons' NRL Women's squad, scoring a try and kicking a goal in her debut game.

The St George Tarsha Gale Cup team were also on track to feature in the finals while the other three junior teams would have failed to qualify if their season had continued.

No Player of the Year or Coach's Awards were presented this season.

With Covid-19 lingering until near the completion of the season, the St George Illawarra high performance unit (HPU) squad sessions were conducted online with Shaun Timmins and Ryan Bailey contributing to the selected players' conditioning and gym programs. The squad consisted of elite junior players from the St George and Illawarra Harold Matthews and SG Ball teams.

The HPU program has been a long-standing testament to the Dragons as a development club, given half of the current NRL full-time squad have taken part in both the HPU and junior representative programs. Three recent graduates of the HPU program in Jayden Sullivan, Cody Ramsey and Max Feagai were rewarded with their NRL debuts in 2020 – congratulations to these three individuals for this achievement.

Former Dragon, New South Wales and Australia representative Shaun Timmins continued in his role of Pathways Recruitment Manager in 2020, with the HPU program one of his many responsibilities.

A huge thanks to former Dragons Head of Athletic Performance Nathan Pickworth and his staff for their contribution to our junior representative program in 2020. Nathan and his team have bought into the physical and mental development of our juniors which has been very beneficial for these aspiring first grade players.

We must also send our thanks to former Dragons' Athletic Development coach Ryan Bailey. In his third year, Ryan's focus on the strength and conditioning development of our juniors started to pay dividends given the vast number of players who have stepped up their football under his tutelage.

TARSHA GALE TO NRLW - TEAGAN BERRY

HPU GRADUATE CODY RAMSEY MADE HIS NRL DEBUT IN 2020

We look forward to the future of the high performance unit under a fresh and exciting new approach – the Dragons Academy – in 2021.

The Dragons' focus, as a nuclear-modelled club, remains firmly on our local juniors. The proof is in the pudding when it comes to our 2020 development player squad.

Now in its third season as a concept, the development player squad – while sitting outside of the Dragons' Top 30 – train and participate in the same duties as the full-time NRL squad. In 2021, the Dragons will fill the maximum quota with players who have come through our junior representative pathway programs.

We cannot forget the contribution that Under-20s coach Willie Talau and the Jersey Flegg team plays in the club's pathway. Unfortunately, following four months of pre-season training their competition was cancelled after their Round 1 success against the Wests Tigers.

All of our junior representative programs are supported by coaches, trainers, managers and support staff who work tirelessly throughout the year to ensure the young players in their respective areas are given the best opportunity to succeed. Their commitment to the players' success is second to none and we thank them again for their fantastic efforts.

We wish to also thank the St George Illawarra board for their continued support of the club's junior development pathways and programs. We look forward to seeing what the 2021 season brings.

St. George Footy Grants

Supporting thousands of Australians in keeping their footy dreams alive.

Following the success of the inaugural St. George Footy Grants program last year, St. George Bank has come together again with the St. George Illawarra Dragons and its other footy partners to help kick community footy back into action after what has been a challenging time for many.

When COVID-19 hit earlier this year, St. George Bank affirmed its commitment to footy amid an uncertain future for Australian sport, doubling funding for the program to a total of $200,000, providing much-needed support to the grassroots footy community hit hard by the pandemic.

The response was overwhelming with 130 applications coming in from across New South Wales alone.

General Manager for St. George Bank, Ross Miller said the program supports the people and local clubs helping to keep grassroots footy growing.

“Players, volunteers and parents are such an integral part of our local footy club communities. This year has been especially challenging for many, which is why we doubled the grant funding available.”

“Alongside our footy partners, we hope this support will help to alleviate some of the pressures local clubs are facing and continue to build stronger grassroots sporting communities.”

Overall, the 2020 grant program will support over 50 clubs and 5,000 members to help keep community sport alive. From clubs to players, volunteers, referees, coaches and the broader football community, the St. George Footy Grants has gone a long way to helping rebuild clubs affected by bushfires, kick start new women's teams, relieve financial pressures for clubs due to COVID-19 and more.
